Survey Corps Museum

The present museum will have to be located within the near future due to the sale of the land and maybe it is time to examine other location options for the Survey Corps Museum.

In light of the Bendigo City Councils move to obtain support from the federal and state governments to secure the asset of Fortuna for the community and coupled with a general feeling that the assets of the Survey Corps Museum should be housed at a location that would benefit from the collection all options need to be considered. At the present time the collection is not readily available to the general public and it is not promoted.

If the Bendigo City Council is successful in persuading the relevant governments that "Fortuna" should be a public asset then maybe it would be appropriate that the Survey Corps museum be located at "Fortuna".
